

Take the strain from the induction process

Meet KxInductions: Our comprehensive online platform for student inductions. Share important information before their arrival, get them fully inducted smoothly and easily, and ensure they have everything they need as they settle in.

How it works:

Front-load the induction process

By sending students all the information they need pre-arrival, from health and safety procedures and contracts to virtual tours and imagery, you can reduce the check-in process when they arrive to a minimum.

Digitise documentation

Digital student handbooks and contracts, along with printable student passes, eases administration and saves on the cost and environmental burden of paper.

Easily manage arrival weekend

Students can pre-book arrival slots, controlled by pre-defined capacities, so that the influx of arrivals can be smoothed out across the weekend.

Tailor your offering

The induction process is fully customisable, and can include key policies, parcel collections, cleaning services, local facility info, advice on what to bring, and much more.

How it helps you

Streamline inductions

Develop concise inductions that cover the key facts, give students the chance to explore further information online, and end with quizzes that confirm students' knowledge of all the details.

Simplify the arrival process

Inductees can print out arrival passes before they travel, saving time on ID checks and paperwork.

Upsell more

Make it easy for students to buy additional bedding, kitchen packs or memberships and maximise your opportunities for revenue.

Serve international students better

Give students from overseas more time to digest information and plan ahead, and even offer them a meet-and-greet airport service.

Update security safety

Make sure your students are fully equipped with all the safety, security and emergency details they need before they even set foot on campus.

Save staff time

No ID checks, pass printing or orientation meetings frees up staff to deal with issues that arise on the day, and takes the stress out of one of the most hectic times of the year.